Chapter 1

General information

The Livvit Guide

Universities of Applied Sciences are choosing Livvit for their health management. This is a show of trust in Zilveren Kruis and an excellent choice in the context of Healthy Business.

This guide describes all the care Livvit can offer you.

Using health solutions, we work towards a healthier workplace together.

The aim is to ensure healthy and vital, committed, more flexible, and more creative employees.

Productivity increases, absence costs fall, and the operating result improves. Healthy employees directly contribute to the success of your university of applied sciences.

This guide provides an overview of all costs, reimbursements and discounts.

As an employer, you may qualify for these. Please see the terms and conditions and reimbursements for the complete terms and conditions.

Health management through a unique cyclic process of insight, solution and implementation

Your Healthy Business adviser will give you insight into the use of care, e.g. via the quarterly report and the Zorgplus analysis. They will also offer you the Basic Health Check.

This insight enables our adviser to make recommendations on further strengthening your health policy through a unique cyclic process. This could include:

- Strategic policy advice;
- Advice on setting up your health programme;
- Advice on implementing the health solutions listed in this guide.

What is Livvit?

Livvit helps ensure a healthy balance between preventive health solutions to prevent absence and keep your employees fit and vital, and health solutions to quickly re-integrate sick employees.

The Livvit Guide is structured as follows:

- Mental health solutions
- Physical health solutions
- Other health solutions

The Livvit Guide provides indicative information on the content, prices, and reimbursements. No rights may be derived from the information in this guide. The Livvit policy conditions provide a detailed description of the terms and conditions and reimbursements that apply to you. The policy conditions are available at zk.nl/livvit.

Zilveren Kruis care provider

Care provider

Care providers are healthcare providers with whom Zilveren Kruis has agreements, and who work according to the Zilveren Kruis Assessment Guideline (ZBR). Care providers have been tested on price, quality, and effectiveness before concluding a contract.

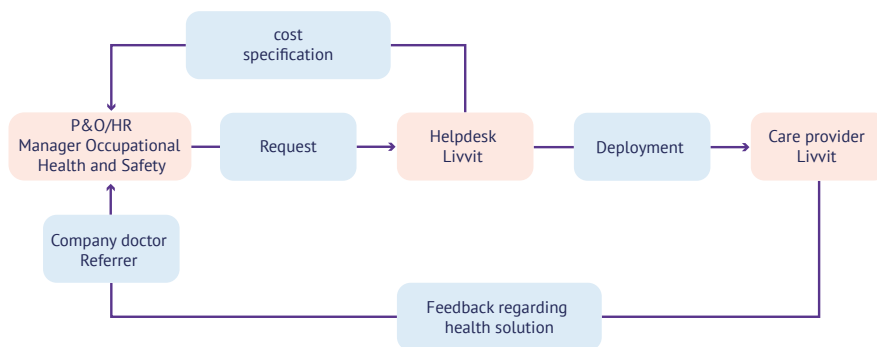

Care providers send their invoices to the Helpdesk.

Invoices are reimbursed according to the Livvit policy conditions. The prices agreed to by our care providers are listed in the Livvit Guide. These prices differ from care providers' market prices. All prices listed are excluding VAT.

Applying for and using health solutions. Zo werkt het!

A Livvit team has been established within the Helpdesk specifically for universities of applied sciences. The following explains how to apply for and use health solutions:

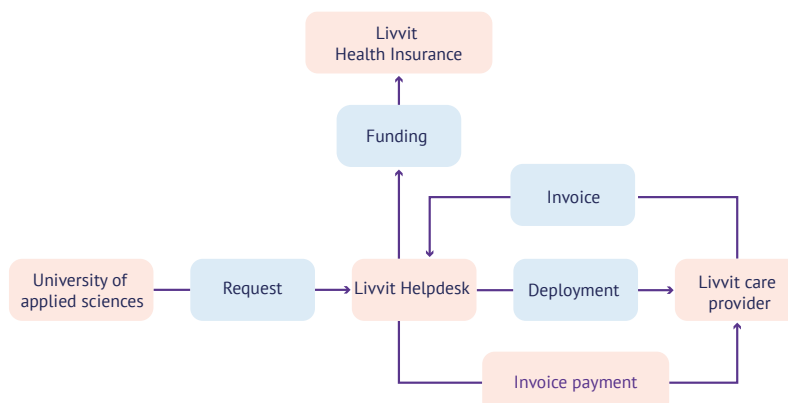

- Request the health solution via zk.nl/livvitaanvraagformulier.
- You will receive a cost specification of the requested health solution. If you have a personal contribution, please sign and return the specification to agree to the costs for your own account as stated on the specification.
- The Livvit Helpdesk will immediately apply for the health solution from one of the care providers contracted by Zilveren Kruis.
- After the health solution has been provided, the care provider will provide feedback to the company doctor or referrer.
- Livvit Helpdesk will pay the invoice in your name.

Paying an invoice

If you use a Zilveren Kruis care provider, the care provider will send the invoice in your name directly to the Livvit Helpdesk. The Livvit Helpdesk will reimburse the invoice. *) This reduces the administrative burden on you.

*) When the maximum reimbursement has been reached, you will pay a part of the costs yourself.

Independent care provider

Non-contracted care providers

These are healthcare providers with whom Zilveren Kruis has no agreements. In some cases, it is possible to use an independent care provider. You will receive a reimbursement if the care is the same as provided by contracted care providers.

Reimbursement for non-contracted care providers

Health solutions or services provided by an independent care provider may be more expensive than the same health solutions contracted by Zilveren Kruis. In that case, Livvit will reimburse the maximum amount of the health solution contracted by Zilveren Kruis. Exceptions to this are the Boost Lifestyle training courses, the workshops and the inspiration sessions. These health solutions are provided exclusively by Zilveren Kruis care providers.

Requirements for independent healthcare providers

Independent providers of psychological care, occupational therapy, physiotherapy in the workplace or mediation must be certified or registered.

- Psychologists must have a BIG registration or be registered as GZ psychologists.
- Occupational therapists and work physiotherapists must be registered in the professional register.
- Mediators must be registered in the MfN register.

Independent care providers are not permitted to operate as “subcontractors”

In other words, an organisation that carries out all or part of the health solution on behalf of your own care provider, without being employed by them. The care provider that registers with Zilveren Kruis must also provide the care.

Requirements for independent healthcare providers, summary:

- Registration in the relevant professional register (if applicable);
- Health solution or treatment is comparable to that provided by a contracted care provider;
- The independent care provider does not operate as a subcontractor.

Applying for health solutions provided by independent care providers

Independent healthcare providers can also be used. This care provider must meet the above criteria. The application procedure for independent healthcare providers is as follows:

- The care provider fills out an online form at zk.nl/uitruilvoorwaarden.
- Based on the completed form, Zilveren Kruis will assess whether the health solution is comparable to the care provided by Livvit's contracted care providers.
- After the assessment, Zilveren Kruis will contact the care provider and the university of applied sciences in question.
- If the assessment result is positive, you can apply for the care solution at zk.nl/livvitaanvraagformulier. The care provider can then submit a claim to the employer desk.

Please note: the assessment must take place before the health solution is started. Invoices must also comply with the Zilveren Kruis claims protocol. The care provider can request a copy of the claims protocol.

Paying an invoice

An independent care provider will usually send the invoice directly to Zilveren Kruis. The invoice must comply with the claims protocol. In some cases, the university must pay the invoice first. After payment, the original invoice and a completed claims form must be sent to the Livvit Helpdesk. The Helpdesk will reimburse the invoice in full, up to the maximum contracted amount. If the independent care provider does not meet all the criteria for reimbursement, you may be able to use the Corporate Health Budget.

Corporate Health Budget

The Corporate Health Budget is 20% of your annual premium and can be spent on health solutions for the entire workforce, a specific target group or individual employees.

Reimbursements for projects

In the case of a project related to an event, communication and marketing costs can also be reimbursed from the Corporate Health Budget. Send your request to your Healthy Business adviser. They will assess the eligibility of the project.

Health solutions supplement

The Corporate Health Budget can supplement health solutions already reimbursed through Livvit. This could include health solutions for work-related care that apply or could apply to the entire workforce.

Services not eligible for reimbursement

Examples of services which are not eligible for reimbursement from the Corporate Health Budget are:

- Activities in response to legislation and regulations (RA&E, PMO);
- 2nd phase reintegration activities;
- Investments in buildings;
- Purchase of office furnishings (e.g. a special desk and chair), gym;
- Fees or contributions for hobby or sports memberships;
- Wages for in-house employees;
- Gift cards or other forms of gifts (e.g. books, t-shirts, mugs, and pedometers);
- Costs indirectly related to the care project, such as costs incurred for meetings and transport costs;
- Costs for care projects and student health solutions.

Using an independent care provider

If you are using an independent care provider that does not meet all the conditions for reimbursement, you can use the Corporate Health Budget. The Corporate Health Budget is set per calendar year. When the year is up, the remaining amount is nullified.

Health insurance excess

For some health solutions, costs can be reimbursed through the employee's health insurance. This means that the employee pays the compulsory and/or voluntary excess in that year

Healthy Business support adviser

Contact the Healthy Business adviser for help and advice on using Livvit. Together with the adviser, you determine which activities are most beneficial to the university of applied sciences.

You will receive a management report

You can discuss the management report with your consultant or account manager. The report will provide insight into costs and revenues. It is possible to receive this report several times a year.

Zilveren Kruis Assessment Directive (ZBR)

Zilveren Kruis introduced the Zilveren Kruis Assessment Directive (ZBR) for work-related care several years ago. The ZBR assesses the quality aspects of the care provider and product/service with a focus on both input and output. With this quality test, Zilveren Kruis aims to manage and further improve the quality of its contracted health solutions.

The Livvit care providers have been tested according to the ZBR and comply with it.

The Assessment Directive consists of three parts:

- reliability of the organisation;

The questionnaire is aimed at the organisation's reliability and stability. To what extent does the organisation meet its obligations? These items will be assessed with a written test

- manageability of the process;

The questionnaire focuses on the extent to which the organisation has mastered its processes. Is there procedural management in place for the primary process—the intake, execution, evaluation and invoicing of production and/or services? These points are assessed with the practical test.

- demonstrability of the product or service;

This questionnaire is aimed at the effectiveness, price, and accessibility of the product being offered. These points are also assessed in the practical test.

Exchange conditions for non-contracted care providers

You are permitted to use a non-contracted care provider in certain cases. To this end, the non-contracted care provider will fill in a form with assessment criteria. Zilveren Kruis takes care of the further processing with you and the non-contracted care provider. The application takes about 2 to 3 weeks. For more information, visit zk.nl/uitruivoorwaarden.

Chapter 2

Mental health solutions

This chapter contains all the health solutions available to keep your employees mentally fit.

Sustainable employability and management

Management training

For HR management, managers, and employees

Who is it for?

The training is for HR management, managers, and employees confronted with changing situations.

What does the HR management training involve?

The training provides insight into one's process and position with regard to sustainable employability and vitality. The training creates awareness. Insight and tools are provided to improve preventive management of the sustainable employability of employees. The HR manager is given an online intake beforehand, which indicates the expectations. This personalises the training as much as possible. Attention is paid to determining a strategic long-term vision of sustainable employability, also touching on the impact thereof on stakeholders and the organisation.

Training objectives of the HR management training:

- Better recognition of stress signals in managers and their employees;
- Improved insight into the creation of support to optimise the implementation of changes;
- Reinforcing advisory skills;
- Better connection with line management;
- Improved decisiveness and positioning by HR;
- Insight into developing a strategic plan for this theme.

What does the management training involve?

Managers may have to deal with employees who are not happy with themselves, or with questions about preventively organising the work to ensure sustainable employability in employees.

Both aspects are covered in the programme, depending on your situation. Managers gain insight into recognising signals from their employees. They also gain insight into their process and position, enabling them to discuss it. The training provides tools for better preventive management of the sustainable employability of employees, both mentally and physically. The manager can indicate their expectations beforehand during the intake. This personalises the training as much as possible while taking your organisation's basic principles into account.

Training objectives of the management training:

- Better recognition of stress signals in managers and their employees;
- Dealing with employees who have difficulty making changes;
- Placing responsibility with the employees;
- Managing attendance in a stimulating manner;
- Conducting difficult conversations.

What does the employee training entail?

The training provides the employees with insight into their process and position with regard to sustainable employment. Tools are provided to be even more aware, healthy, productive and sustainably employable, and in doing so, remaining in control of their own work.

Managing aspects that influence sustainable employment is the core of the training. The employee can indicate their expectations beforehand during the online intake. This personalises the programme as much as possible

Training objectives of the employee training:

- Gaining insight into the current situation;
- Insight into and awareness of their actions and the effects thereof;
- Insight into how things can be done differently;
- Make it possible to discuss individual themes adequately.

Where is the training given?

The training is organised for each university of applied sciences and is tailored to their specific situation. The one-day training course will be given at or near your university of applied sciences.

Investment and reimbursement

The training course costs € 1.995,- per group of 6 to 12 participants. Livvit reimburses 100% per group with a maximum of 1 training per employee per calendar year. The educational institution will bear all additional costs for customisation, such as catering and venue costs.

One-day training: Omgaan met werkdruk (Work pressure management)

Standard training for management and employees

The one-day Omgaan met Werkdruk (Work pressure management) training programme focuses on the various factors that play a role when experiencing pressure at work. The starting point is the balance in workload, capacity, and support. During the programme, employees, teams and managers gain insight into these aspects and their resilience and communication within the organisation and are given the tools to deal with all of this effectively. Self-management, work/life balance, recognition of signals and addressing them openly in conversation.

Who is it for?

Employees who suffer from work pressure and want to get a solution-oriented grip on it. Employees who have experienced pressure, stress, phase of life problems or change and are looking for insight and awareness into their process. After the programme, participants have increased insight into the various causes of work pressure and what influence they have on it themselves, but also where they have no influence. They can take certain targeted actions to reduce the work pressure.

Managers who want to learn to recognise signals and make them open to discussion. They manage situations involving work pressure, stress, phase of life problems or change. They will practice the Difficult Conversation during the programme. After the programme, managers will better recognise the signals and openly discuss work pressure. Insight into and awareness of their actions and the effects thereof on others.

Teams who want to learn to speak out with their team leader. This is about wanting to engage in dialogue with the other to handle the perceived work pressure better.

COVID-19

If additional COVID-19 measures are in effect, the following applies:

The training programme has been adapted to the current COVID-19 rules issued by the government and the National Institute for Public Health and the Environment (RIVM). Each participant will receive a set of training materials with their name at the start, which they will work with throughout the training. Disinfectant cleaning products are available for use during the programme. The programme is always organised to ensure it is right for the participants. This enables us to respond to current measures and the participants' wishes.

Investment and reimbursement

The training programme is provided by LTC training/NextSteps.nu and costs € 2,000 per group, with a minimum of 6 and a maximum of 12 participants). Livvit reimburses 100% per group with a maximum of 1 training per employee per calendar year. All additional costs such as the possible use of an actor, catering and location rental are for your account. It is also possible to add depth to the training through online exercises and theory through the LTC Online Academy.

The training is usually offered in person but is also available online.

Customised one-day training course

Customised training programme for management, employees, and HR

A customised training programme that responds to relevant themes within the educational institution. Sustainable employability, workload, self-management, organisational changes, remote collaboration and digital education.

In this one-day training programme, we mentor and support the team with all these changes. After an extensive intake, we closely match the team's needs, phase and self-managing ability, to ensure a deep-seated and long-lasting effect.

We start with a personal and comprehensive intake; we make the programme for the one-day course together with you. Ownership and team involvement ensure that the team's needs are met while facilitating strong retention and a long-lasting effect. We target the issues during the one-day course, always addressing the head, the heart, and the hands. We increase intrinsic motivation to work with the insights. We conclude with a plan of action for the team and concrete follow-up steps. If desired, and in consultation with your adviser, we can spread the one-day training over two days with interim exercises and assignments. Participants leave the training with insight, awareness and tools to increase their influence and identify and undertake follow-up steps.

COVID-19

If additional COVID-19 measures are in effect, the following applies:

The training programme has been adapted to the current COVID-19 rules issued by the government and the National Institute for Public Health and the Environment (RIVM). LTC Boost training

Who is it for?

Employees in danger of becoming unbalanced due to stress. This could be caused by high work pressure, disturbed work-life balance, fatigue, reorganisation, conflicts or divorce.

Today's hectic world is extremely demanding.

Imbalance is constantly lurking. The LTC Boost training offers participants better insight into their actions and their influence on them through experiential and body-oriented exercises. It can be given preventively or as part of a reintegration programme. We focus on relaxation, sleep, movement, recovery, qualities, communication and enthusiasm. Research has shown LTC Boost training to be highly effective as part of a Long COVID programme. We work in a group of approximately 10 people, led by two experienced trainers.

Before the training begins, each employee completes a questionnaire.

After registering, the employee receives a link to the questionnaire. The completed questionnaire constitutes additional input for the training. Each employee writes a personal action plan at the end of the course.

The training is followed-up with an e-coaching and e-consultation process.

After the programme, the employees receive help putting the lessons learned into practice. LTC training/NextSteps.nu will contact the employee for a follow-up five working days after the Boost training course. LTC training will then schedule two coaching sessions. LTC training/NextSteps.nu uses an online evaluation to assess the situation three months later. The employee will also complete a six-month online course through the LTC Online Academy. This caters to situations that may arise in between, increasing the effect and sustainability of the training.

Where does the training take place?

The training takes place in Heeten (Overijssel).

COVID-19

If additional COVID-19 measures are in effect, the following applies:

The training programme has been adapted to the current COVID-19 rules issued by the government and the National Institute for Public Health and the Environment (RIVM). Each participant will receive a set of training materials with their name at the start, which they will work with throughout the training. This enables us to respond to current measures and the participants' wishes.

Investment and reimbursement

The training costs € 1,634 per person. Zilveren Kruis policyholders with Aanvullend 3 stars will receive €1,000, and those with Aanvullend 4 stars receive € 1,250. Livvit supplements the remaining costs up to 100% with a maximum of one LTC Boost training course per person per year.

Please note

If the employee has a supplementary policy through Zilveren Kruis, the costs will be claimed from that insurance first.

Corporate social work (coaching)

Corporate social work offers your employee a purposeful and solution-oriented training using proven methodical conversation management. Your employee receives individual, short-term support to achieve a long-term effect.

What does corporate social work entail?

Corporate social work aims to prevent absence or help employees return to the workplace as quickly as possible. During the first interview (intake), the situation is examined to see if corporate social work is necessary, and whether the problems lie within the framework of the job. The individual interviews follow. These usually take place at the corporate social work provider's location.

Who is it for?

Employees functioning at a reduced capacity due to work and/or private problems or developments, or at risk of absence.

In what situations can corporate social work be employed?

Corporate social work, support, and work advice for Help Requests

- A work-life imbalance;
- Risk of stress, burn-out, and absence;
- Dealing with organisational changes;

Corporate social work, coaching for developmental requests

- Change of job & job requirements;
- Learn to prioritise and how best to plan things;
- Learn effective communication; how do I come across?

Corporate social work, coaching for financial help requests

- Getting finances in order: structuring finances together.
- Balancing income and expenditure: identify the cause of imbalance and achieve financial stability

Mental coaching

Livvit offers two types of coaching programmes: mental coaching and physical coaching. More on physical coaching can be found in Chapter 3.

What is the focus of mental coaching?

Mental coaching is aimed at regaining mental balance.

Preventing or shortening employee absence

If the employee's balance is upset, they are at risk of absence. Coaching can help guide the employee in their personal and emotional recovery. The care provider helps employees develop themselves so that personal and organisational targets are met faster. Personal responsibility and self-management are central to this.

After approval from the employer and the Livvit Helpdesk, an intake interview will take place within five working days. During this interview, it will be examined whether the problem of impending absence can be prevented or shortened.

What does the coaching programme entail?

Livvit offers three coaching programmes:

- HeyCoach on location
- Theme-specific coaching
- Balance recovery coaching

The following is a brief explanation of each programme.

On location

Using the secure Shared Connect portal, the employee can conduct an intake online via email, chat, or video daily between 9am and 9pm. It can also be done by phone. The employee immediately has a conversation with the coach, who continues the process. All coaches are I-O (industrial-organisational) psychologists registered with the Dutch Association of Psychologists (NIP). After the intake, the employer will make agreements with the care provider about a walk-in consultation hour on location. The sessions have no predetermined length. However, the maximum coaching time is three hours.

Theme-specific coaching

Within theme-specific coaching, an employee chooses one of the following themes:

| | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Stress management programme | Talent development |
| Burn-out intervention | Mental and physical complaints |
| Work-life problems | Motivate and stimulate |
| Vitality at work | Professional sustainability |
| Dealing with uncertainty | Confronting organisational change |
| Fears | Coaching for HR Managers |
| Self-management | Mindfulness at work |

The employees can register online or by phone. Based on the profile and possible location of a coach, the employee chooses a coach. After registering, the employee completes the intake form and the impact measurement tool with their online account. This is followed by a no-strings-attached, in-person meeting to determine whether the coach is a good fit. If they click, the employee and coach jointly determine the goals and an action plan. The employee then takes an online test tailored to the chosen coaching theme. The employee receives a report based on the test results and has a one-hour coaching interview. The employee can then start working on an assignment at home or work.

The employee will have three more coaching sessions—two half-hour sessions on Skype or by phone, followed by a final, face-to-face meeting to conclude the coaching process. During the final session, a plan of action is drafted for further development after the coaching programme and the entire coaching process is evaluated. Lastly, the employee fills in the online evaluation form and the impact measurement tool.

Balance recovery coaching

The employee starts the process with a 90-minute, in-person intake, followed by a 60-minute, face-to-face coaching session, after which they can start working on home assignments. Online questionnaires and 20 e-health modules are used for this purpose. During this assignment phase, the employee will receive a total of 60 minutes of additional coaching: two half-hour sessions by phone or a one-hour video session. After completing the coaching process, the employee can receive support by telephone or email.

E-coaching programme Stress 2.0

Stress and related psychological absence are important themes for educational institutions.

Who is it for?

Stress 2.0 is for employees whose work or health is negatively affected by occupational stress.

Why invest in stress resistance?

Investments in employee stress resistance pay for themselves. Absence costs decrease, while employee productivity and contentment increases.

The Stress 2.0 e-coaching programme will help your employees

Stress is addressed through coaching sessions and extensive online support.

All relevant steps are supported online and documented in a personal file. The programme starts with an online check and an in-person interview which takes approximately one hour. After that, an inventory is made of the stress level and lifestyle. The possibilities for change take place in steps.

Programme overview

Step 1

Inventory of stress, lifestyle, and opportunities for change.

- Includes an online check;
- one-hour, in-person consultation;
- personalised options;
- Identification of coaching needs;
- agreements on monitoring and evaluation.

Step 2

Information about stress and creating awareness of the consequences of stress.

- Online information on stress and the consequences thereof.
- Online preparation of personal explanatory model.
- Coaching session on the personal explanatory model.

Step 3

Selecting a stress reduction method and building motivation for one or more strategies.

- Online strategy and motivation orientation.
- 1.5-hour, in-person consultation.

Step 4

Getting started with various strategies, with online modules and two 1.5-hour in-person sessions:

- Increasing assertiveness;
- Taking control and letting go;
- Organising social support;
- Mindful relaxation;
- Learning to think differently;
- Time management.

Step 5

Online support for evaluating and validating the various strategies.

Investment and reimbursement

This coaching module with extensive online support by FitzMe Company costs € 587.50 per employee per calendar year. We reimburse a maximum of one programme per employee per calendar year

Resilience guide

Training jong geleerd en oud gedaan (Old Habits Die Hard course)

Who is it for?

- Experienced teachers or lecturers who have to deal with rapid changes in education (including digitalisation) while being and remaining productive, and want to experience fun and positive energy at work.
 - New teachers who want to learn to deal with the many issues they face and avoid becoming overburdened while staying healthy and resilient at work.
- * If the request concerns other departments, please contact us.

What does the course entail?

Training jong geleerd en oud gedaan (Old Habits Die Hard course) is a coaching programme with online training to strengthen mental resilience in teachers and lecturers of all experience levels. Mental resilience is the ability to continue to generate added value for the organisation and oneself in a productive, vital, and meaningful way with sufficient work enjoyment, even in the face of difficult, changing, or uncertain work situations. The coaching aims to strengthen personal resources such as hope, optimism, trust in one's ability and resilience.

The training is available for both individuals and groups.

Individuals:

The training consists of four 60-minute coaching sessions and approximately 8 hours of online training. The coaching sessions are scheduled once every three weeks. The participant continues to work on the online training in between the sessions. The course duration is 9-12 weeks. The online training is accessible for 12 months.

Location:

At the employer's location or to be determined.

Group:

The training consists of three 120-minute coaching sessions and approximately 8 hours of online training. The coaching sessions are scheduled once every three weeks. The participants will continue to work on the online training between the group sessions. The course duration is 6-10 weeks. The online training is accessible for 12 months.

Location:

At the employer's location.

Investment and reimbursement

Livvit reimburses 100% of a group training with a maximum of € 253.75 per employee, with a minimum of 8 and maximum of 12 participants, and 100% of an individual training with a maximum of €830 per person

Please note

There is the possibility to follow an inspiration session about this programme.

We reimburse one coaching programme per year

For the below-listed types of coaching, we reimburse a maximum of one programme per employee per calendar year. These include:

Career counselling

Who is it for?

Career counselling is for employees who want to gain insight into their career prospects. Employees who can no longer fulfil their role due to physical or mental limitations are also eligible.

What does career counselling entail?

The following employee characteristics are assessed through interviews and psychometric research:

- capacity and learning ability;
- specific professional skills and interest in certain occupations or positions;
- personal characteristics and qualities;
- educational options.

The advice is aimed at:

- Determining suitability for a certain position or work.
 - Fitting alternative functions and opportunities for training, if any;
- Appropriate working conditions, career planning, and re-employment.

Investment and reimbursement

Livvit reimburses 100% of one counselling per person per year, to a maximum of € 1,249.70.

Mediation

Who is it for?

Employees or management in a dispute.

Why mediation?

Dealing with a protracted conflict is often so difficult that the employee becomes absent. This is unnecessary. A mediator can contribute to the solution of a conflict and prevent escalation, such as taking the matter to court. Occasionally, it may not be possible to find a solution. In that case, the mediator will supervise the departure so that no party suffers more than necessary.

Location

The sessions with the mediator take place in a location acceptable for every party concerned.

Investment and reimbursement

Mediation costs € 165 per person per hour. Livvit reimburses 100% of one mediation process per person per year (maximum of 12 hours).

If using an independent care provider, please note

Independent healthcare providers for mediation must be registered with MfN.

Psychological care (occupational)

Who is it for?

Employees who become unbalanced and need the help of a psychologist. Psychological care contributes to a rapid recovery and quicker return to work.

The application procedure

The employer or company doctor reports the employee to the Livvit Helpdesk. The application is a two-step process, starting with an intake interview. Based on the interview, a course of action is proposed. The employer sends an approval to the Livvit Helpdesk for both the intake and the course of action. The selected care providers all work with an employer module. Work is an important factor in the treatment. The average number of required sessions is between 4 and 8.

Investment and reimbursement

We reimburse up to €500 per employee per year for the corporate mental healthcare employer modules (quick access, employer reports, work resumption plan, and absence prevention plan).

Psychological care does not qualify for reimbursement from health insurance

When applying for a psychological health solution, Livvit assumes that it concerns work-related care and that, as such, it does not qualify for reimbursement from the health insurance.

Can psychological care qualify for reimbursement from health insurance?

In certain cases, psychological care may qualify for reimbursement or partial reimbursement from health insurance. In that case, the employee concerned must authorise reimbursement from their health insurance.

The costs can be claimed from the employee's excess. A valid referral from the doctor or company doctor is required for this situation. It is possible to use health insurance coverage for some of the care providers listed below. These care providers are marked with *.

Dare to Act

Dare to Act

The Dare to Act programme is an intensive development programme. Participants work in groups and are coached individually. The programme challenges participants to initiate concrete career choices. From the very beginning, participants enter a growth process and take a close look at themselves. During four months, ingrained patterns are broken, and a transition is made from merely surviving to living life. The result is more focus, more energy, more inner freedom, and a future plan shared with the environment.

Who is it for?

Employees who are 'stuck' in existing work environments and patterns or incapacitated employees with restrictions on returning to work.

What does the Dare to Act programme entail?

- Intensive personal developmental process;
- group dynamic that accelerates and encourages decision making;
- partly individual coaching;
- three 3-way conversations with employee and manager;
- personalised legal and financial advice;
- access to 'Career Navigator' where employees can work on their e-portfolio.

Investment and reimbursement

The four-day training programme costs € 4,536 per employee. The group consists of three to four participants.

Livvit only reimburses certain elements of the course to the extent that they are implemented: psychological care and Your Career counselling. These elements must be requested separately.

Shared Ambition

Meer veerkracht, minder stress!

(individual)

The percentage of burn-out cases in education has been the highest of all comparable branches for years. This programme teaches employees to better cope with the high work pressure and stress in education, and to create a better work-life balance.

Who is it for?

The programme is suitable for employees who have a lot on their minds, experience great pressure from outside, cannot sleep well, and feel tense, rushed, and irritated.

The Working on Resilience programme teaches employees to better deal with high workloads and stress.

In an individual coaching programme to develop stress management skills, the employee gains insight into their sources of stress and energy loss and their physical and psychological effects. The employee learns techniques to get a better grip on their emotional responses.

These effects are made visible with the Inner Balance Trainer

The Inner Balance Trainer is an app with a Bluetooth sensor for smartphones or tablets. The employee will receive the set at the start of the programme. The Inner Balance Trainer helps the employee see the influence of stress on their heart rate and teaches them techniques to reduce that influence. The HeartMath coach can monitor remotely via the HeartCloud, with the employee's consent. The employee gets to keep the Inner Balance Trainer after the programme has been completed so they can keep practising with the app.

Programme overview

The programme consists of seven one-hour sessions with a HeartMath coach, spread over two to three months. Before the sessions, the employee completes an online questionnaire which provides insight into the employee's daily mood, attitude, and stress-related complaints. At the start of the programme, the employee receives a structured and well-organised workbook. In the first two sessions, it becomes clear what is draining the participant's energy and the consequences for their mood and behaviour. They will also see what gives them energy and how resilient they are. The participant gains insight into their energy management methods. With this insight, objectives are set and with the techniques from lessons 3 to 6, the participant can improve their handling of stress techniques. Large or small, because a lot of small stress is just as harmful as large stressful events. In the seventh and final session, the participant makes a personal action plan with the HeartMath coach to ensure that the lessons learned are well embedded in their daily life. After this last session, the participant can continue to use the app, with the learned exercises becoming more and more automatic.

What is the result?

Analysis of the Stress Reduction Effect Measurement, including more than 800 coaching programmes, shows a significant decrease in stress symptoms. Participants in the programme indicate that they feel more relaxed, have more peace of mind, and behave more balanced. Automatic stress responses are recognised sooner, and the participant increasingly realises that there are different ways to react. The techniques the participant learns through the Inner Balance Trainer can help them regain balance more quickly in the moment itself. This makes it much easier to deal with the daily hustle and bustle in education.

Investment and reimbursement

The maximum reimbursement for this programme (including the Inner Balance App and Bluetooth sensor) is € 1,190 per employee per calendar year.

Please note

There is the possibility to follow an inspiration session about this programme.

We reimburse one coaching programme per year

For the below-listed types of coaching, we reimburse a maximum of one programme per employee per calendar year. These include:

- Werken aan Meer veerkracht, minder stress! (more resilience, less stress) stress reduction programme (individual);
- Vergroot je veerkracht, verminder je stress! (increase your resilience, reduce your stress) group stress reduction programme;

Vergroot je veerkracht, verminder je stress!

Destress with an app! (group + online)

Working in education is becoming more and more of a top-class sport. It is a tremendous challenge, but employee's need to possess the necessary mental and emotional stamina.

Who is it for?

For employees who suffer from work stress or want to continue to maximise their potential under difficult circumstances (e.g. constant changes in the organisation, increasing regulation and performance pressure)

Participants learn how to achieve the necessary stamina.

This training course is aimed at stress management and increasing resilience. Participants gain insight into the consequences of stress and what they can do about it. Using the Inner Balance Trainer—a Bluetooth sensor and app for smartphones and tablets—they can see what emotions do to their heart rate and become aware of behavioural and emotional patterns that lead to energy loss. The participants learn techniques that give them a better grip on their emotional reactions. The programme's core is that the more energy you have, the greater your resilience. Using the techniques offered in this group programme and the Inner Balance Trainer, participants learn to detect and stop energy loss, to charge themselves, and to retain energy.

Programme overview

The programme consists of four half-days but can also be followed partly online. Before the sessions, the employee completes an online questionnaire which provides insight into the employee's daily mood, attitude, and stress-related complaints. At the start of the programme, the employee receives a structured and well-organised workbook. In the first part of the course, participants learn what causes their energy loss and the effects thereof on their mood and behaviour. They also learn what things can energise them and how resilient a person can be. With this insight and the techniques taught during the sessions, the participants can improve their energy management. They set goals and learn simple techniques to help them achieve these goals.

The training pays extensive attention to effective cooperation and communication. Finally, the participants make a personal action plan. The action plan ensures that the lessons learned are well embedded in the participant's daily life. The participants are allowed to keep the Inner Balance Trainer so they can continue their daily practice after the training is completed.

What is the result?

At the end of the training:

- participants have clear insight into the effects of stress on their behaviour;
- participants have improved their performance through emotion management;
- participants have more energy and increased vitality;
- participants have more mental and emotional flexibility;
- participants have increased concentration and focus levels;
- participants are more capable of listening;
- participants are able to communicate coherently;
- participants are more able to empathise with others;
- participants are able to get the most out of themselves, when they want to.
- participants can manage their own emotions, which increases the quality of their contact with colleagues and students.

Investment and reimbursement

The maximum reimbursement for this programme (including the Inner Balance Trainer the participants receive at the start) is € 562 per employee per calendar year. The minimum group size is 10 participants. The maximum group size is 14 participants.

Please note

There is an option to follow an inspiration session on this programme.

We reimburse one coaching programme per year

We reimburse a maximum of one programme per employee per calendar year for all types of coaching combined. There is no distinction between the Meer veerkracht, minder stress! The workshops

Eet als een Expert (Eat like an expert)

Healthy food gives a lot of energy; energy that makes you feel fit. But what is healthy eating, exactly? Is it the same for everyone? What is the relationship between nutrition and energy levels?

The workshop will address the following themes:

- energy and energy balance
- kilos and calories;
- focus on nutrition;
- get a grip on your dip;
- healthy eating in today's fast-paced world.

There will also be room for questions during the workshop

Employees learn how to find the right information in the maze of nutritional information.

Gezond Slapen (Healthy Sleeping) (1.5 hours)

This is a workshop in which participants learn about the influence sleep has on their health:

- how sleep plays a role in better performance;
- what can be done to improve sleep and performance;
- how to deal with sleepiness at work.

Participants must register in advance and can create an online sleep profile

Specific aspects can be addressed depending on the situation, such as shift work, jet lag, stress, working from home, or small children. The workshop is held in-company.

Voeding in de hoofdrol (Nutrition in the Lead Role) 'One size fits all?' (2 hours)

We all know that healthy food and plenty of exercise are important. But what is healthy eating? What about ready-made meals? What are Omega 3 fatty acids? How do I combine sports and nutrition? These are all questions we ask ourselves.

Nutrition is at the centre of it all

The workshop Voeding in de hoofdrol (Nutrition in the Lead Role) is an interactive workshop about nutrition and creating nutritional awareness. All nutrition-related topics can be discussed during the workshop, whether it concerns weight, cholesterol, sports, or eating in relation to performance or irregular shifts. The approach is: accessible, practical, recognisable, interactive and fun.

Workshop themes:

- enjoying healthy foods: simple and healthy
- health and weight: all about weight
- facts and fables: the truth behind nutrition
- your own food-related topic.

Healthy lunchbreak (2 hours)

A good lunch will also help your employees perform well in the afternoon. The participants will prepare a lovely power lunch as a team.

A dietitian/nutritionist will discuss common facts and fables with the group

After the workshop, your employees will know all about olive oil, fish, organic bread and unusual fruit, for example. Your employees will experience first-hand that healthy and tasty can be easily combined. The employees also get to keep the recipes.

Not at lunchtime?

We can just as easily change the workshop to 'borrelhapjes met lef' (Ballsy snacks) or 'fingerfoods om uw vingers bij op te eten' (finger-licking good finger foods).

Het Nieuwe Gezonde Werken (New Healthy Way of Working) (1.5 hours)

Do you want to make employees aware of the importance of a healthy weight and exercise? This can be done with the light-hearted and interactive 'Am I Living a Healthy Life?' workshop. It is not condescending but fun and informative.

Voeding en vitaliteit (Nutrition and vitality)

Course instructors and participants discuss nutrition and vitality. How do employees experience their lifestyle? What feels right and what feels wrong? The taste rounds with healthy and delicious foods are especially popular. They also teach the participants about responsible alternatives for their daily diet.

The following topics are discussed:

Nutrition and exercise are discussed and healthy products can be tasted. Lifestyle measurements: fun tests that give an insight into one's own health. Statements: What is true? Debunking food fables. Get moving: fitness exercises for in the workplace.

Goal of health solution:

Create awareness of one's lifestyle - Stimulate new dietary choices. Increase dietary variation.

Het Nieuwe Werken leidinggevenden (New Way of Working for Managers) (2 hours)

The New Way of Working (NWoW) is a contemporary method being implemented in many companies. However, it requires a different form of cooperation, decision making, communication, and management. A manager will often run into problems after implementing the New Way of Working. This experiential workshop will make you aware of the problems and challenges that arise.

A number of questions are discussed:

- does the New Way of Working fit my department?
- how do I deal with the New Way of Working as a manager?
- work and private life are intertwined; how do I deal with it?
- does my leadership style fit the New Way of Working?

Het Nieuwe Werken medewerkers (The New Way of Working for Employees) (2 hours)

The New Way of Working (NWoW) is a contemporary method being implemented in many companies. In many cases, the New Way of Working is implemented and only then do you discover any problems. This experiential workshop will make you aware of the problems and challenges that arise.

A number of questions are discussed:

- does the New Way of Working suit me?
- how do I deal with the New Way of Working?
- does my work style fit the New Way of Working?
- can I sufficiently indicate my limits?
- where does my responsibility end?

Ont-stressen met een app - 'de HeartMath Methode' (De-stress with an App! 'the HeartMath method') (2.5-3 hours)

The workshop is aimed at stress management and resilience. Your employees will gain insight into the consequences of stress and what to do about it. Using a biofeedback computer programme, participants see what emotion does to their heart rate. The effects of the techniques they practice are immediately visible on the computer screen. This teaches your employees to get a grip on negative feelings, and they see the positive effect of pleasant emotions.

After this workshop:

- employees are better aware of the affects of stress on the body, mind and behaviour;
- employees know various HeartMath techniques they can use in their personal and professional lives;
- employees have experienced the influence of emotions on their personal performance;
- employees are better aware of their input in situations and relationships, both personally and professionally.

Nutrition and Energy 'Superfoods & Brain Shakes' (2 hours)

Your employees are under a lot of pressure at work and at home. This influences their energy levels. Your employees must be able to keep a grip on their energy level.

Nutrition is an important pillar in terms of energy levels

A good, balanced diet prevents dips and contributes to a positive balance. The workshop's themes include 'Influence of food on the energy level', 'Nutrition and its influence on performance' or 'Nutrition and delivering a sporting performance'.

Voeding en onregelmatig werk 'Gezond de klok rond' (Nutrition and Irregular Work Hours 'Healthy 24/7') (2 hours)

It is important for employees who work irregular hours to pay extra attention to nutrition. Good nutrition prevents all kinds of unpleasant health complaints and fatigue.

The workshop themes include:

- Energetic throughout the night, tailor-made for the target group;
- Biorhythm on the move, specifically for employees who travel a lot;
- Nutrition and resistance.

Werk en gezin (mythen, beelden en dromen) (Work and Family (myths, images, and dreams)) (1 half day)

One of the most important characteristics of successful working parents is that they have consciously chosen to combine work and family life and stand by their decision. Working parents who are fully committed to this decision are not easily swayed by others, feel less guilty and suffer less stress.

Insight into old thinking patterns

This workshop aims to clean up obstructive beliefs that stand in the way of a successful combination of work and family. Insight into: one's personality, obstructive myths and images, facts and practical tips and tools for more recovery time at home.

By creating insight into their pitfalls and optimally monitoring the balance, employees increase their resilience and experience less absence.

Werk en ouderschap (spitsuur op werk en thuis) (Work and Parenthood (rush hour at work and at home)) (1 half day)

Even before employees start their day, they have experienced a rush hour at home. Getting the children dressed, fed, and to school. After work, it all starts again. Cooking dinner and getting the children ready for bed.

The combination of work and family life can cause stress

That stress can cause employees to lose the balance between work and home life. They are at risk of becoming less productive at work.

How do you balance work and family?

A number of handy insights and practical tools can help employees on their way. The tips are tailored to the employees' personal situations.

Werken vanuit veerkracht (Working With Resilience) (2 hours)

Work is an important part of our lives. It offers development potential and can also be a source of energy. Nevertheless, there are times when not everything goes according to plan. Moments in which it all becomes too much. A lot is asked of employees in this day and age.

Reorganisations, uncertainty, crisis; in addition to that, we work in a 24-hour society where there can be great temptation to work on just a little bit longer.

Stop exceeding your limits

We mainly function on strength. That costs energy and can even lead to exhaustion. We use experiential learning in this workshop. Through exercises, you will experience your standard reaction to stressful situations. You learn to recognise and acknowledge your body's signals. Subsequently, we experiment with different reactions and look for answers on dealing with those signals.

The exercises are done using the following themes:

- setting boundaries;
- recognising stress signals;
- saying yes and no;
- taking responsibility.

Working with strength takes a lot of energy

You 'run out'. In this workshop, you will experience how to work more with resilience. Everyone possesses resilience, and it is an important element for leading a healthy and happy life. The more resilient you are, the greater your ability to recover, and your energy lasts longer. You will even have energy left over.

Werk-privé balans (Work-Life Balance) (2 hours)

Between work, shared responsibilities at home, social life and sometimes studying, you have a lot on your plate. You often feel you 'have to' do things, making your life feel more like merely surviving. Many employees struggle to find a balance in life that suits them.

This experiential workshop answers many questions in a relatively short time

It also provides practical tools to help you manage your work-life balance better. You learn to recognise and acknowledge signals and patterns. How do you currently do things; what can you change; what do you need to achieve that? Other people's experiences help with this as well. This will give you more insight into your work-life balance, and it will become clear what changes you can make. This is how theory and practice come together.

Leef ik gezond? (Am I Living a Healthy Life?) (1 hour)

Do you want to make your employees aware of the importance of exercise and a healthy diet? Do you want to support your employees in achieving a healthier lifestyle? The interactive workshop Leef ik gezond? (Am I Living a Healthy Life?) is the perfect way to achieve this.

How do employees experience their own lifestyle? What feels right and what feels wrong?

This workshop will focus on the latest trends and research on, for example, sugars, saturated fat and the danger of prolonged sitting.

The workshop will address the following themes:

- Presentation and taste rounds: nutrition and exercise are discussed, and healthy products can be tested;
- Lifestyle measurements: fun tests that provide insight into one's own health;
- Statements: What is true? Debunking food fables.
- Voeten van de vloer: fitnessoefeningen voor op de werkvloer (Get moving: fitness exercises for in the workplace)

Chapter 3

Physical health solutions

This chapter lists all the health solutions to keep your employees as physically strong as possible.

Physical coaching

Livvit offers two types of coaching programmes: mental and physical coaching. You can read more on mental coaching in chapter 2. The coaching described below is aimed at physical complaints.

Who is it for?

Employees who are in danger of being absent due to disruption of their personal balance. Livvit offers your employees the Pim Mulier coaching programme. This coaching programme is suitable for employees with an increased health risk profile.

What does the treatment entail?

The process starts with an employee intake interview. During this interview we look at the employee's:

- current health profile;
- personal balance between load and capacity;
- work and lifestyle;
- individual wishes, expectations, and options.

The coaching programme is tailor-made.

The programme consists of:

- individual coaching sessions (a maximum of four coaching sessions per employee);
- following and evaluating the progress and results;
- adjustment of the programme;
- one contact moment every two weeks;
- one report for the company doctor.

Investment and reimbursement

The Pim Mulier coaching programme costs € 914 per employee per year.

We reimburse one coaching programme per year

We reimburse a maximum of one programme per employee per calendar year

Physiotherapy at work

Who is it for?

Employees in need of physiotherapy.

Quickly recognising work-related and relevant physical complaints limits the damage.

Early recognition prevents the symptoms from getting any worse. In addition, it minimises the use of care and prevents long-term absence. With the support of a physiotherapist within your organisation, your employees will follow a programme.

This will enable early detection. In addition to the detection speed, the working method is also important for effective goals. Experience shows that a behavioural approach has an extremely positive effect. The employees are taught how to deal with and prevent their complaints.

What does the treatment entail?

The physiotherapist will hold open visiting hours for half a day a week for 45 weeks. During this half-day, a maximum of 7 consultations take place. Depending on the size of the educational institution, a suitable alternative interpretation can be determined in consultation with the Healthy Business adviser.

Investment and reimbursement

We reimburse up to €28 per treatment, with a maximum of six treatments per ailment per employee per year. There is also a half-day allowance of up to €104 for reporting, consultations, and evaluations with the customer.

Please note:

- The educational institution is responsible for organising space and equipment for physiotherapy at the workplace.
- An independent healthcare provider must be registered as a physiotherapist and be skilled in manual therapy, ergonomics, and modifying an individual workplace.
- The independent healthcare provider must have physiotherapy contracts with other health insurance companies.
- The costs can be claimed from the employee's basic insurance and/or supplementary insurance.
- The costs count towards the compulsory and/or voluntary excess.
- Discuss physiotherapy at the workplace with your Healthy Business adviser.

Basic Health Check

Who is it for?

For all your employees.

The Basic Health Check provides insight into how healthy your employees are.

Employees receive direct results in the form of a personal score. The Basic Health Check takes approximately 30 minutes. The employee gives the company doctor permission to use the results of the Health Check. All the data is made available to the employer anonymously. The Health Check is an easy way to organise your health management. The Health Check is a simple way to gain insight and use it to develop your health policy.

The Basic Health Check consists of:

- Blood pressure check;
- Total cholesterol check;
- Glucose level measurement;
- Weight and length measurement (Body Mass Index);
- Fat percentage measurement;
- Waist measurement;
- Questionnaire regarding health complaints or lifestyle;
- Personal advice regarding lifestyle, fitness, health, and quality of life.

If you have 20 or more participants, your company is eligible for the Basic Health Check. For less than 20 participants, additional fees will be charged.

Investment and reimbursement

The reimbursement for the Basic Health Check is €54.50 per person per calendar year. There is a graduated scale agreement in place: the price depends on the number of participants. Livvit reimburses one Basic Health Check per employee per calendar year.

Physical strain training

Who is it for?

Employees at risk of back, neck, or CANS complaints (previously known as RSI).

Posture and locomotor apparatus complaints.

These preventive training courses aim to give the employees insight into the risk factors.

They also receive the tools to change their behaviour and posture. This also enables them to recognise posture and locomotor apparatus complaints on time.

What does the treatment entail?

The preventive back or CANS training courses are mostly held on location and tailored to your specific situation. The training takes half a day. The theory is discussed in groups. The next step is to get to work with practical examples. This is done with the aid of photos and other imagery. There is an opportunity to receive brief work recommendations.

Investment and reimbursement

A maximum of one training per employee per calendar year for a preventive training course aimed at preventing back, neck or CANS complaints. The maximum reimbursement for a training programme is € 960.75 per group. The training has a minimum requirement of 8 participants.

Workshops, training courses and clinics

How do I start exercising responsibly, effectively and have fun doing so? (1.5 hour)

In this interactive workshop, we deal with the following question: If I want to start exercising more, how can I do this responsibly and effectively?

Employees receive the answers to the following questions:

- How do I use a heart rate monitor?
- What type of exercise fits my objectives?
- How often should I exercise?

At the end of the workshop, the participants will make responsible choices about how to start exercising and working out.

Investment and reimbursement

Depending on the size of the organisation, you receive reimbursement for training courses, workshops, and clinics:

- Up to 500 employees: a maximum of € 1,250 per policy per year.
- 500–1,000 employees: a maximum of € 2,500 per policy per year.

Other health solutions

You can find all other health solutions in this chapter.

Occupational therapy

Who is it for?

As an employer, you are not always fully aware of the obligations if an employee becomes incapacitated for work. Livvit offers tailored occupational therapist advice which can be engaged after the employee has been absent for 26 weeks. This advice includes support for both the employer and employee in the event of long-term absence.

When should occupational therapy be requested?

The occupational therapist can be called in after 26 weeks of absence and/or:

- Claims reduction;
- Tailored advice on solutions for long-term absence for employer and employee;
- Advice on reintegration into the same job or another job for the employer;
- Possible adjustments to the work situation for individual employees with disabilities.

A meeting will be scheduled with the occupational therapist within one week of registration.

The meeting will be held at the employer's location with both the employer and employee to gather as much information as possible. A report will be drawn up and sent to the manager and employee within one week of the meeting.

Investment and reimbursement

Maximum of one advisory session per person per calendar year. The maximum reimbursement is € 1,071 per advisory session per person per calendar year.

If using an independent care provider, please note

If an independent care provider is consulted, they must be registered as an occupational therapist in the professional register. Care provided by an independent care provider is reimbursed up to the maximum rates for contracted care providers.

Taxi transportation

Who is it for?

Employees who are temporarily unable to commute independently due to physical complaints.

When is taxi transport an option?

An employee may suddenly be unable to get to work because of something like a broken leg. As an employer, you will temporarily have one less employee. This can be solved by allowing the employee to use taxi transportation.

Investment and reimbursement

Livvit reimburses 100% of the costs of a taxi with a maximum of € 500 per employee per year. Once the maximum reimbursement amount has been reached, taxi transport may be continued from the same care provider at your own expense at the same reduced rate.

Please note

Taxi transportation can be requested from the Livvit Helpdesk (at least 28 hours in advance).

Emergency domestic care or childcare

Who is it for?

Employees with an unexpectedly sick partner or child, as a result of which the employee is unable to work.

Absence to solve an acute problem at home.

For example, because the person caring for the children unexpectedly had to cancel, or because a sick partner needs care. The aim is to get employees who are absent but not ill back to work as quickly as possible. That is why the assistance is provided at the employee's home.

Livvit offers domestic care within 48 hours.

In this way, the care of the partner or children or household tasks can be taken care of.

No indication is necessary for domestic care.

In some cases, there is sufficient reason for the Social Support Act (Wmo) to continue providing care. However, this does require an indication from the CIZ (Care Needs Assessment Centre) by referral from a doctor. The employee must organise this themselves.

Investment and reimbursement

Livvit reimburses the costs of up to 20 hours of domestic care or childcare per event per calendar year. We also reimburse the costs of documentation. Your employee can spread the 20 hours of domestic care or childcare over different days or weeks. This assistance does not guarantee continued home care by the normal home care institutions.

Please note:

For applications submitted to the Livvit Helpdesk before 10am, home care will be provided within the next 48 hours. Requests filed after 10 start a day later.

If your employee already uses a daycare, they must be registered in the National Register for Childcare (LRK) for reimbursement.

Care Mediation

Who is it for?

For any employee in need of medical treatment and facing a waiting period.

Waiting lists in the healthcare sector

Annoying for your employee, annoying for you. By requesting care mediation via the Helpdesk, you ensure that your employee is provided with good, speedy assistance.

Investment and reimbursement

Livvit offers the service to hire Zilveren Kruis Care Mediation Coaches for your employees.

Application procedure

Every employee can apply for healthcare mediation from their health insurer. Livvit offers the option to request care mediation for your employee via the Helpdesk.

You inform the Helpdesk employee about the situation. All further processing depends on your employee's health insurance, the insured party's wishes, and the cooperation of general practitioners and specialists.

Dynamic Working - Programme

Who is it for?

Employees in education who want to sit still less and move around more while at their desk.

What does the Dynamic Working programme entail?

Dynamic Working is a programme in which the department or organisation's goals, preconditions, and culture are mapped out with the employer or manager. This makes it possible to tailor the support and ensures that the programme fits well within the company's policy.

Dynamic Working - Furniture

Who is it for?

Employees in education who want to sit still less and move around more while at their desk.

Purchase dynamic furniture at a discount

You can purchase dynamic furniture at a 7% discount through Worktrainer BV. Desk bikes, desk treadmills, sit-stand desks, and balance boards are just a few examples of the type of active workplace furniture care providers provide.

It is desirable for the employer to set up a Green Work Zone.

A Green Work Zone is a work environment with 4 to 6 dynamic, active work spaces in a strategic, visible, open location. The location must also be equipped with means of communication to be recognised as a dynamic working location. The care provider can provide advice and support in purchasing and installing the Green Work Zone.

Fysius Rugvitaal (Fysius Vital back)

Who is it for?

Academic staff with spine-related complaints (back, neck, pelvis, and shoulder).

What does the treatment entail?

Fysius will draw up a personal treatment plan based on the diagnosis made. They do this together with your employee. On average, the personal treatment plan consists of 20 sessions of 20 minutes in which self-management and commitment are the focus. Together with your employee, Fysius will look for a solution to the work relevant/work-related complaints and reintegration.

Location of the programme

At one of Fysius' treatment centres. Fysius has 28 treatment centres throughout the Netherlands.
